Wines from classic French varieties, such as Cabernet Sauvignon, Merlot, Syrah, Chardonnay, and Sauvignon Blanc are the country's most revered. However, there is a growing interest in wine made from Mediterranean varieties and the area's native grapes. Israel has a total of 5,500 hectares under vine. Approximately 60,000 tons of grapes are harvested annually.

Teperberg 1870 Winery, near kibbutz Tzora in the foothills of the Judean Hills, Israel, was founded in the Old City of Jerusalem in 1870 by Avraham Teperberg.

Today, it is managed by fifth-generation Motti Teperberg and has grown to become both the third-largest winery and the largest family winery in the country.

The Teperberg family continue to maintain the ancient winemaking tradition, while constantly improving and creating a clear signature based on firm roots. The talented winemaking team make quality wines at every price point.

The Pinto family set a goal to show that the very best products can come from the particular agriculture in the Negev desert. So, in partnership with local growers, they planted a large vineyard next to the city of Yeruham with grape varieties most suited to the desert terroir, founding Pinto Negev Winery. They learned that in the Negev, if harvested on time (quite early), the grapes produce light, but very spiced wines that are pleasant and fun to drink. Pinto Winery produces elite wines rating among the country's finest boutique wineries.

The Tura Winery is located on a family estate and is one of Israel's most professional boutique wineries. The winery was opened by Vered and Erez Ben-Saadon in 2003 in the village of Rehelim.

The grapes used for making the wine are grown in the Mount Bracha village in Samaria, 850 meters above sea level, in a climate that is optimal for first-class wine grape varieties.

The range of wines are made with love, perseverance and patience: they are full-bodied wines, characterised by a richness of fruit flavours, which reach the market after a long ageing period in the cellars of the winery.

Kishor Winery, established in 2010, is located in Kibbutz Kishorit, a residential community for adults with special needs. The winery is an integral part of the community, employing five permanent workers from the Kibbutz year-round and hiring more for the intense harvest season.

The estate winery and its vineyards are 500 meters above sea level, where the Mediterranean sea breeze shields the vineyards from Israel's typically hot summer day, producing extraordinary grapes from the Western Galilee terroir.

The Gush Etzion Winery is a family-run business that began with a berry bush. In the nineties, the Rozenberg family began producing berry cakes and ice creams. With a garden abundant with fruit, the family tried their hands at making blackberry wines and cherry liqueurs. Yet their dream of producing wines from their very own vineyard was powerful.

With a new personal sense of mission and optimism, they progressed to grape wines, acquiring a little land to cultivate grapes.

Today, situated in the heart of the Etzion Bloc, the Winery has over 150 acres under vine, producing a broad range of unique, high-quality, fine wines cultivated from more than a dozen different quality grapes.

Italy

Italy is home to a vast array of wines, regions, grape varieties and wine styles. From the misty, lush rolling hills of the north to the sun-drenched hills of Tuscany, Umbria, the Marche and Abruzzo, to the southern lands of Puglia, Calabria and Basilicata, while not forgetting the islands of Sicily and Sardinia. Sangiovese is Italy's most-planted grape variety. More subtle than other red wine varieties like Pinot Noir and Cabernet Sauvignon, Sangiovese is nevertheless one of the most popular and beloved grapes used to make wine.

The quality of the Borgo Bella wines is the result of the work that takes place in the vineyard and of the selection of the best quality grapes.

Through the delicate phase of vinification, the wines' essential qualities are brought out. Qualities that will be polished and enhanced through maturation in barrel or bottle and will be released in the glass when the wine is finally opened and enjoyed.

Baglietti is about the feeling in your gut, the sound in your ears and the sensation of a cold glass on your dry lips. The feeling when everything stops for a second, regardless of the setting, city or occasion. There is a magical moment when you open the bottle.

The name Baglietti, is a tribute to Marco Baglietti, who worked in the hills surrounding Veneto, Northern Italy for 45 years. Their range of products are classic, bold and unpredictable, in an iconic bottle.

A Cantina Di Oras Amicale is a unique blend obtained from a careful selection of red berried grapes grown in the Veneto region. Part of the grapes are subjected to a process of overripening on the plant, followed by fermentation in steel tanks. Once the blend has been obtained, part of it matures and is slowly refined in tonneau.

Some centuries ago, the Ilic family arrived in Serbia and aquired a farm in Pepelj, one of the most beautiful villages on the slopes of Tara mountain.

The family quickly realised that their southfacing fruit orchards produced delicious and juicy apples, pears, quince and plums. With ideal altitude for fruit growing, plenty of sunshine and fresh spring water, their land granted extra sweet and succulent fruits.

With these ripened fruits, the family distillers created an exquisite brandy, savoured by guests at special occasions. The brandy had an amber glow as a result of being kept in aged oak barrels. Over time, the family has kept a strong tradition in fruit growing, brandy distilling and oak barrel making.
